“APRIL” is Community College Awareness Month

Here are five tips or recommendations about community colleges and your way to celebrate as well as honor our students this month:

- Make a point to visit your community college or visit their website.
- Take a class as an adult learner at your community college.
- Offer your services or volunteer at a community college.
- Make a financial donation to a community college support students.
- Share information about the community college system with those who will be attending college soon.
