Commendation and Kudos to David C. Butty, Dean of the Study Abroad Program

students were taken on a guided tour to study the architectural designs of the Linderhof and Neuschwanstein castles, both built by King Ludwig II. The students also visited the famous English Garden and the vehicle delivery showroom and museum of the Bavarian Motor Works, better known as BMW. Noor (El-Moussaoui), a pre-intern, noticed the lack of speed limits on the German roads. "I thought they go too fast! I thought they should enforce speed limits," said Noor. The students also visited the past when they viewed the Dachau Concentration Camp. WCCCD student Christina Bachis described the visit to the Dachau Concentration Camp was a "somber" experience. "Dachau was important because I got to reflect on our world history. In order for us to succeed in a world we need to learn from our

WCCCD Students Study Abroad in Germany

By David C. Butty, Dean for International Programs/Media Specialist, Wayne County Community College District, Detroit, Michigan

For more than two decades, the Wayne County Community College District's (WCCCD) Study Abroad Program has covered approximately 20 countries. The program has allowed students to improve their language comprehension and critical thinking skills as well as improve their written and oral communication skills and most importantly, acquire a greater understanding of cultural appreciation.

Recently, 21 students representing various disciplines completed a week-long educational and cultural study as part of the WCCCD Study Abroad Program in partnership with the European University Business School Group. The students heard lectures on global economics and the importance of communication in the global marketplace from German Professor Ingmar Baermann. Professor Baermann discussed the competitiveness in today's marketplace and how institutions are constantly competing for students. Students also had the opportunity to learn from individuals such as Andre Schipp, Chief Operating Officer for the European University Business School Group in Munich. He spoke about the financial cost of education and how his university is helping students offset some of their financial burden. WCCCD student Luke Moore said what most Americans take for granted is when dining in a restaurant is not the same in a foreign country, like Germany. "When it comes to food and beverages I was shocked by the differences. One thing that we take for granted here is the free drinks and bread. While those may be free and unlimited in terms of "free" refill that is not a thing in Germany. Be mindful on your table. It is not free."

David C. Butty received the following note from Carina Caldwell, Interim Executive Director, Community Colleges for International Development (CCID):

"I hope you are doing well. I wanted to touch base with you regarding a couple of items. First, I wanted to thank you so much for your fantastic submissions for our Quarterly Newsletter, you always have great stories to share and I really enjoy learning about what you are doing up at WCCCD. It is clear that you have done a fantastic job of creating international opportunities for students and faculty at your school and I believe you represent a vital sector of CCID membership that often does not have a seat at the table regarding the mission, vision and direction of CCID.

Secondly, I just had a great conversation with our contacts at the British Council and they are looking to develop a sponsored 2019 Spring Break trip to the UK for U.S. Community College students."

Division of Institutional Effectiveness

Sample Data Points from Gallup:

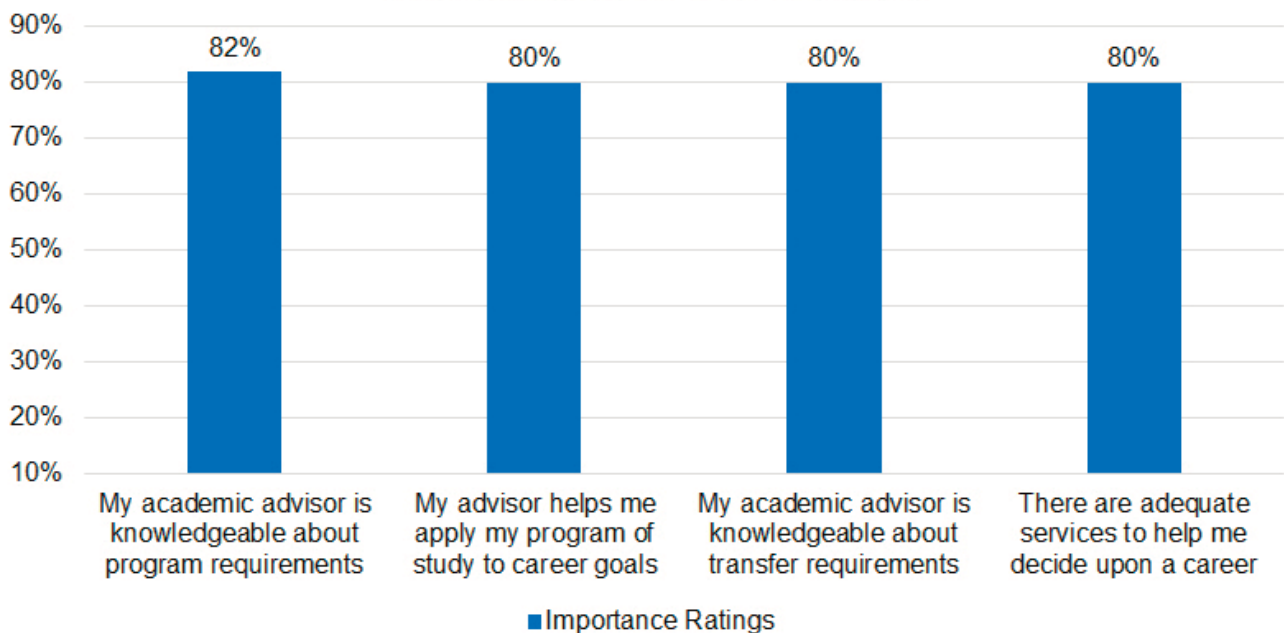

The Division of Institutional Effectiveness (IE) reviews national research trends to assist divisions, programs, and the District with planning initiatives. According to the Gallup 2017 College Student Survey Report, “students receive helpful advice about courses and programs from academic advisers, but less so about careers and post-graduation plans.” In the figure to the right you will find sample data points from the Gallup article regarding academic advising.

Tech Tip of the Week

Spear phishing is a special type of fraud, usually conducted through email, which appears as though it comes from a legitimate source and requests personal or confidential information from you, or attempts to trick you into installing malicious software by clicking on a link or opening an attachment. Always be suspicious of emails, even if they appear to come from a trusted source. When in doubt, call the sender and ask if they sent the email.
