The “You Belong, We Help You Succeed” Initiative

Chancellor Ivery has approved a general process of faculty and staff dialogue about the next stage of WCCCD’s transformation. This next phase is currently being referred to as the “You Belong, We Help You Succeed” phase. Since 2002, WCCCD has proceeded through three transformational stages of the Pathways to the Future initiative. The fourth phase, Pathways to the Future IV, will focus on equity-driven talent development and student success as expressed in the theme “You Belong, We Help You Succeed.” This initiative, which will guide WCCCD’s strategic development during the next five years, is in the exploration and discussion stage. Input from all stakeholder groups is very welcome as the contours of the initiative are studied and decisions are made. The three pillars of the “You Belong, We Help You Succeed” initiative are:

- Talent development and leadership: advancing WCCCD’s position as a primary leader in talent development for Detroit, Wayne County, and Southeast Michigan (integrating career and workforce education development with community leadership efforts)
- Equity: Major steps in advancing WCCCD’s diversity, equity, and inclusion agenda
- Student success and completion: Equity-minded steps in advancing WCCCD’s student success and completion model

The objectives of the “You Belong, We Help You Succeed” initiative are:

- Building on WCCCD’s open door philosophy and history, to advance a campus climate of belonging to persons of all races, ethnicities, gender identities, and income levels; to be a place of welcome and support to persons from all marginalized and disenfranchised groups.
- To remove all barriers to student success and completion, including financial issues, food insecurity, housing insecurity, transportation, child care, inadequate prior education, and limited job and career skills; remove all barriers caused by internal policies, structures, processes, and staffing.
- To position WCCCD as a leader in Detroit, Wayne County, and Southeastern Michigan in equity-driven talent development in support of regional economic development, thus creating job and career opportunities for persons from all income levels.

The Design Center of WCCCD will facilitate involvement of all stakeholders as the Pathways IV: “You Belong, We Help You Succeed” initiative takes shape and implementation begins. A Strategic Initiatives Team chaired by Chancellor Ivery will guide the development of this initiative.
