DR. RANDALL MILLER SHARES LEADERSHIP THOUGHTS WITH EXECUTIVE TEAM

Book Recommendation

X Troop, The Secret Jewish Commandos of World War II
by Leah Garrett

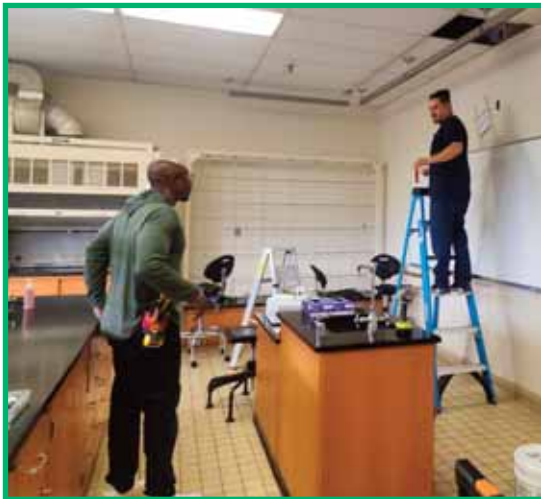

“Cut Em Some Slack”

Providing slack is a sailing term used to allow sails to do their job well. Applying that term to real life experiences, we can learn that failing to cut others some slack in tense situations can lead to utter failure and sometimes disastrous results. “Avoid a similar fate by giving others the same leniency we desire when we fall short of our or others’ expectations. Just as we are sometimes overzealous, hypocritical, or out-and-out wrong, so can our friends, coworkers, and bosses be,” notes Amy E. Herman in Fixed.

Providing an out or a ‘do-over’ can be a great tool when an interaction has gone badly. All our relationships- personal, professional, and even political- sometimes can benefit by giving the other side room to surrender. We cannot change the past, but we can do better in the future by actively practicing conflict negotiation skills.

What's Trending?

WCCCD PepsiCo Foundation Uplift Scholar Outcomes

The Division of Institutional Effectiveness (IE) supports the Division of Student Services by collecting data and information for support programs to promote decision-making for student success. The Student Success Center facilitates the WCCCD PepsiCo Uplift Scholars Program to help underrepresented students achieve their educational and career advancement goals.

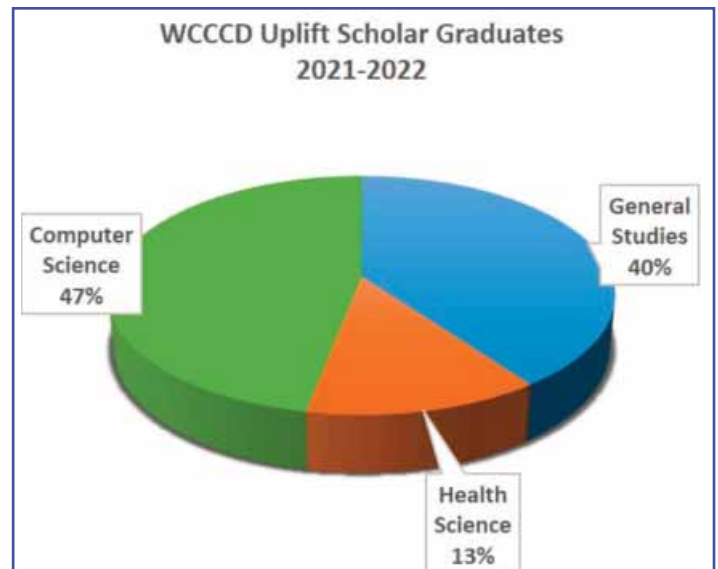

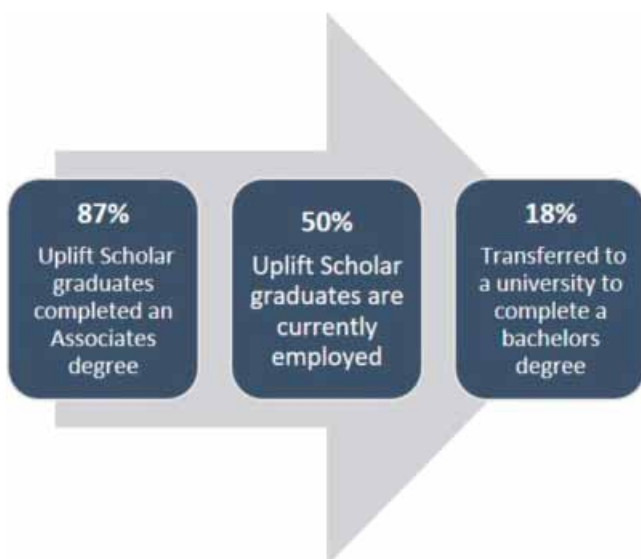

WCCCD partners with the PepsiCo Foundation and provided 80 WCCCD scholars with scholarships, emergency funds, and career planning resources to support their unmet financial needs. Below is a snapshot of the WCCCD Uplift scholars experiences and success.

The WCCCD Uplift scholars pursued degrees and certificates in four career pathways to high-growth and high-demand disciplines.

- Approximately 85% of the scholars are first in their families to attend college.
- 62% of the computer science scholars are female
- 89% of scholars maintain a 2.5 or higher GPA.

WCCCD PepsiCo Uplift scholars continue to pursue their goals of completion and employment in high-growth careers and industries. Below is a summary of the success outcomes for some of our Scholars. Approximately 69% of our Scholars are currently enrolled and pursuing their career advancement goals.
